Easter Prayers.

White lilies hang the altar rail.
The Easter sunrise, cold and pale,
Through stained glass windows, drifting down,
Falls like a brightly burning crown.
Upon a golden head bowed low
Before me, in the second row.

Her red lips move in silent prayer
For all mankind—ah! does she care?
That one poor sinner, kneeling near,
Is lost in haunting doubts and fear,
Whose litany this day must be,
"She loves me—loves me not—loves me?"
Fear, you for all the world have prayed,
I prayed for you, sweet Easter maid!

—Florence A. Jones, in April Smart Set.

Marriage Proposals.

Chicago Chronicle.
A party of women were talking the other day—and women will talk sometimes, it seems—and marriage proposals were the theme under discussion. Someone wanted to know whether the proposals in novels were anything like the proposals of real life. The young girls said they must be and the matrons said they were not. Two of the latter confessed they had never received proposals at all from their husbands. That shocked the girls, who imagined dreadful things about leap-year proposals. But there was nothing so romantic as that.

"I don't know when my husband first began to think of marrying me," or when I thought of marrying him," said Matron No. 1. "I had known him for such a long time that I never seemed to have thought of anything else. We always seemed to have known that we should marry each other. He did ask my father, but he certainly never asked me."

"My husband never proposed to me," said Matron No. 2. "This might seem strange to you, but there was nothing strange about it. It would have been strange if either of us had thought anything else. Other men? Well, other men than the right ones make a proposal of marriage as they would any other proposal of less romantic kind. Then there are proposals by letter, but any man who proposes by letter can ask by word of mouth. I never heard of a man who proposed by letter to a girl. It is a cowardly thing to do. But, then, if you are careful for the man—oh, well, it makes all the difference in the world."

"But one of the happiest marriages I ever knew came about in a strange way and with what most girls would consider the least sentiment and even without proper consideration for the conventions. I knew both the man and the woman when I was young. He was a thorough good fellow, belonging to a good but ordinary family. He was brilliant in a way, but he was a man to be liked and respected. She was as pretty a girl as I ever saw and a woman who had grown into a woman who had grown older. The man had been in love with another girl, proposed to her and was refused. This girl heard of such things and got around, though no one ever told her."

"What a shame," she said, indignantly. "He is a nice fellow; if he should ask me I would marry him."

"This remark also got out without being told, the young man heard it, took the girl at her word, asked her if she meant it, she said she did, and the woman who had lived happily ever after, for I have known them during all the 'ever after'."

Game for Children.

What to Eat.

If you want to give an evening of enjoyment to your children's little friends, try this game of geographical questions. Arrange a set of numbered cards, five by eight, by fastening a picture or article on each card that will suggest the name of a town, country or river, etc. One bearing the picture of Washington will be easily guessed; also there is no difficulty in representing Turkey. A small globe, served for little rock, a red drum major's stick, Baton Rouge, the letter "C," cut out of the back paper, cover, a small plate, is China, and so on. Indeed, much ingenuity can be displayed in getting up the cards. Care must be taken, however, not to make them posers for the little people. Not more than fifteen should be prepared. The children are divided into two teams, and the symbol cards put up, one after another, where they can be seen by all the children. No one is allowed to guess until the hardest question. One of this season's novelties is a candy box, the face similar to a small globe. Such a box, filled with candy, makes a charming head prize for a girl, while a copy of Captain Hall's "The Story of the World" may be given to the boy answering the most questions. Do not have any "booby" prizes, but give the "game of Nations" and a cut-up map for "consolation" prizes. A simple and dainty supper is chocolate, sandwiches, custard with meringue served in cups, cake and bon-bons.

The name cards should have tiny flags of the different nations tied to them with a bit of bright ribbon.

The Minuet Club will give an extra formal dance at the Brenneke Academy Monday evening, May 9, in honor of retiring officers and the new installation.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Spann and the Misses Spann will leave, Tuesday, for Springfield, O., to attend the marriage of Mr. Paul Martin and Miss Bessie Black.

Mrs. O. S. Runnels gave a matinee party yesterday afternoon, at English's, for her daughter, Miss Agnes McCullough, Miss Helen Kirtland and Miss Kirtland's bride party.

An Easter entertainment will be given at the German House this afternoon at 8 o'clock, by the children of the Free Sunday school. There will be music and recitations.

The marriage of Mr. Edward G. Hereth and Miss Warner, of Goshen, will occur April 17 at the bride's home. The wedding will be very quiet, only the relatives to be present.

Next week Mrs. Henry H. Fay, well known in Indianapolis art circles, and a member of the Studio Club, will give an exhibition of her work in L. S. Ayres's art department.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Pierce entertained at dinner Friday evening, in honor of their guest, Mrs. L. S. Ayres. The other guests were Mrs. May Wright Sewall, Mr. T. C. Steele and Miss Steele.

The sixth section of the Maennerchor Ladies' Society has arranged a euchre party for Friday afternoon. Miss Lena Fertig is chairman. The first Sunday afternoon informal of this month will not be observed.

Queen Esther Auxiliary will be entertained by Mrs. Catherine Thomas, at her home, on Ashland avenue, assisted by Mrs. Sarah E. Walls, Mrs. Rebecca Echols and Mrs. Hattie Faulkner, on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Nathaniel A. Rose, assisted by Mrs. Mary Maxwell Knippenberg, will entertain Tuesday, April 23, with a high tea, in honor of Miss Cora Parry, whose marriage to Mr. Warren Oakes will occur May 1.

Mrs. Henry L. Beveridge gave a small luncheon yesterday, in honor of Miss Julia Bell, of Chicago, who is visiting Mrs. H. L. Van Hoff. Miss Bell will return home Tuesday.

Young ladies of St. Joseph's Church met Monday evening in the parlors of the hall and formed a social club called the Maquette. They will give a reception and card party Tuesday evening, April 23, in St. Joseph's Hall.

Mr. Louis Conde and Mr. George Wildhack entertained their card club Friday night at the home of Mr. Conde. The prizes were Manual Training High School pillows, and they were won by Mr. Addison Nordyke and Miss Laura Hadden.

Mr. and Mrs. Perrin O. Hunter, of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner and Mr. W. C. Dale, of St. Louis, who have been visiting in the city, will leave to-day for their homes. Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace, of Rushville, will arrive to-day to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Parry.

The April dance of the Woodruff Place Club will be given at the clubhouse on Friday evening. The committee in charge include Mrs. L. S. Ayres, Mrs. George U. Bingham, Mrs. Carroll Swain, Mrs. J. H. Ford, Mrs. McMurray and Mrs. E. H. Tripp. Hart's orchestra will furnish the dance music.

The Political Equality Society will meet this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Philip Rappaport, 126 North Alabama street, and will discuss the suffrage movement. An attractive program has been prepared. The speakers will be Mrs. Rappaport, "A Socialist Eighty Years Ago," and Mr. Leroy Templeton will talk on "Social Statistics." There will also be a short musical program.

The sixth section of the Ladies' Society of the German House gave a progressive euchre yesterday afternoon. In the assembly of the club, Mrs. J. H. Ford, Mrs. Jacob Becker and Miss Ludorf. They were assisted by Mrs. J. H. Ford, Mrs. Amy Kothe, Miss Bosler, Miss Smith and Miss Shover. The prizes were placed on a table in the center of the room, decorated in green and white. There were guests for forty tables, and for those who do not play cards there were other games.

Miss Niblack will exhibit a collection of Chinese embroideries at St. Paul's parish house for the benefit of the cathedral fund next week. Miss Niblack is anxious that the exhibit be taken as an art exhibition, as the collection, which numbers over one hundred and fifty pieces, is a valuable one and the needlework exquisite. Few people realize how difficult it is to collect these beautiful embroideries, except those people who have visited China and tried to make a collection. In the collection there are twelve skirts, seven mandarin robes, portholes, table covers, draperies, etc.

Guests of the Portfolio Club on last Thursday evening are still talking of the pleasant entertainment offered on that occasion. The little one-act burlesque play, based on what might have been had some of Shakespeare's dramas turned into different plays, was written by Mr. Edgar A. Morris, dramatic teacher. The four parts, "Mrs. B. Montague," "Lady Mollie," "Mrs. Oph. Hamlet" and "Mrs. Bressano," were well taken by Mrs. H. G. Hunter, Mrs. Carl Lieber, Miss Myra J. Clouse and Mr. Herbert Politz, respectively, and the performance altogether was clever and amusing. The programmes were of unique design, after a drawing by Mr. Forsyth.

THE EASTER BALL.

All arrangements have been completed for the Easter ball to be given to-morrow evening by the Maennerchor and it will undoubtedly be one of the most brilliant events of the closing social season.

The decorations for the ball are said to surpass all previous efforts of the society. The effect will be Oriental, and over 5,000 flowers will be used for the "fire bush."

The guests will be received by the officers of the ladies' society in the ballroom. The committees having charge of the Easter ball are as follows:
